Task 1 Reading Practice

Read the story.

Fascinating Science

Stuart, a scientist who was fascinated by the muscles of the human body, conducted many scientific experiments to learn more about how muscles work. Stuart's greatest scientific achievement was his study of how to cure a muscle abscess. His schedule was frequently filled with science experiments and scientific presentations. Stuart's recent presentation featured a scene of a man ascending a mountain. The background scenery was beautiful. Using scissors, Stuart had cut the outline of individual muscles and attached them to the model of the man. It was a fascinating scientific presentation on the muscles of the human body.
